The good people of Ayr have sent out invitatations to Scottish sculptors-inviting them to compete for the order to raise a statue to Robert Burns. It is to be bronze, to have a height of 9ft. 6in, and the price £750. The competing models are to be 3ft. 2in. high, and the statue is to be completed within a year after acceptance. Premiums of £50 and £25 will be paid to the authors of the design which obtain the second and third places, the models becoming the property of the committee. The sculptors are signing a memorial protesting against these terms. They urge that the height of the competng models (3ft, 2in.) is too much; that a year is too short a time for the completion of the work, and that £750 is not sufficient, seeing that the material will cost nearly £500.

The late Mr. John Bright, though an enthusiastic fly-fisher, had a vivid sense of the cruelty involved in angling with a worm. While staying in the neighbourhood of Kelso some years ago there was introduced to him a Border angler who uses no other lure, and stoutly maintains that the worm requires more skill than the fly for its manipulation especially in small, clear trout streams. Naturally, Mr. Bright inquired how he got on in the Jed, Leader, and Oxenham. "Oh, well," was the answer. "on Thursday last I killed 86 trout." "Seven dozen trout with worm," exclaimed Mr. Bright, " Goodness, what, a slaughter!" But the Scotchman did not like the consure involved in this remark, and there and then set himself to demonstrate that less cruelty was involved in the successive deaths of the trout than in the hour's play which was often required before Mr. Bright could land his twenty pound salmon.

been made by a lady, who has for some time been making experiments to ascertain the degrees of intensity in a note when sung by the human voice. While testing the capability of the "phousidescope," which registers the air waves produced by the vibration of the voice, the idea struck her that, if a more sensitive substance were used, the disturbance of the air could be more accurately registered: After many attempts she succeeded in finding the substance which she was in search of, and her anticipations proved correct. On this substance Mrs. Watts-Hughes spreads a thin layer of coloured powder. The membrane is then placed in a kind of trampet, into which a note is sung. The powder, according to the quality of the note, diffuses itself into the most wonderful shapes, which are then transferred to glass by another process. The forms of flowers and plants seem to be the most usual. The discovery is attracting much attention among scientific

The Russians invited the Austrians to visit them. and received them most cordially, and the Austrians resolved to return this hospitality by inviting their Russian friends. But there was one difficulty in their way, namely, that the Russians could not appear in Crasow in uniform, and unhappily they had no plain clothes at hand. The Austrians offered them Austrian uniforms, which were accepted. The next day "Ludovicus," writing to the Spectator, tells the Russian officers in their borrowed plumes,

In Russian circles, says the Berlin correspondent of the Daily News, the following interesting story is told as to the cause of the Czar's recently issued Ukase commanding Russian Princes only to contract orthodox marriages if they wish to retain their rights to the succession. After the accident at Borki people discassed what would have happened if the Imperial family had not escaped unburt. The Prince of Oldenburg, commander of the Guards, is said to have made the remark that he would immediately have assembled the Guards and made them swear allegiance to the Czar's brother, the Grand Duke Vladimir. The latter's wife was a Priness of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, and does not belong to the Orthodox Church. The Prince of Oldenburg was informed that his views were wrong, as the law annulling the right of succession of those Grand Dukes who had not contradicte i orthodex marriages has never been abrogated, and that such marriages were only tolerated. The Imperial Ukase was therefore intended to confirm an already existing law. which implies the exclusion from the succession of the Grand Dukes Vladim r and Sergius-the latter of whom has married a Hessian, Princessshould their wives not after all become converted.

NOW ON SALE .-INPERIAL QUARTO. NGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNTL AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.

An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at Daily Press Office Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivelled. All the new 16 packages matting, 19 cases silks, and 333 of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration: Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese charactors. Again, despite all the grammars and WALES, and European Possessions, Vol 27a other elementary works as yet published the student of this difficult language absolutely re- West Indies, Vol. 30. quires examples to display the various appli-cations and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples and Australesia, containing the Colonies of all this work contains more than five times as Nations, and the Independent Empires and many as any other Dictionary hitheric pub- States, Vol. 29. For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who Europeans residing in China and to the natives understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all themselves it explains, subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted.

To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages,
